the ordinary circumstances of family and social life, from which the very web of their existence is woven. As you read this you may find this scenario bizarre, but at the time the shenanigans going on in there seemed no more inappropriate than the lusty consummation of creamy beverages and cookies that I see people indulging in, in the Primrose Hill Teashop from where I write this article. To help transport the reader back in time, I incorporated some headlines of the day. Great post, Andrew.
